Chuck Fowlkes

Program Manager

Energy Trades Program

Chuck Fowlkes is the Program Manager of the Energy Trades Program at Randolph Career Technical Center, now in its second year. Under his leadership, the program has expanded with strong support from corporate advisor DTE Energy, helping to prepare the next generation of energy professionals.

Chuck brings over 26 years of experience from Consumers Energy, where he held various leadership positions, including Commercial and Industrial Supervisor at the Macomb Service Center and Gas Service Supervisor in the metro region.

He is also the Executive Director of The Chuck Fowlkes Organization; a nonprofit committed to bridging the gap between qualified skilled trades candidates and industry opportunities—ensuring individuals have access to meaningful career pathways in the trades.

A retired U.S. Army Captain, Chuck completed 30 years of military service, serving as an HR Resource Officer (S-1), where he provided personnel guidance to military leaders and oversaw strength management operations.

Chuck is an active member of the Oak Park Toastmasters Club and volunteers regularly with community organizations such as Forgotten Harvest Food Bank and the Southeast Oakland Kiwanis Club.
